PUBLIC COMMENTS:

Supervisor Wilcox opened the meeting for public comments.

John Knapp read the following letter, to be included in these minutes:

On August 13, the residents of Oxford filled the American Legion to comment on the proposed changes to the zoning ordinances. While a variety of valid issues were raised, the vast majority spoke about the grave dangers of both high volume hydraulic fracturing and the use of "Material Staging Areas". All who spoke received applause from the entire group, showing an exceptional level of support among those gathered. Not one person spoke in favor of allowing either of those two uses in our town. Mr. Wilcox thanked us all for our input and promised to address these concerns at the next board meeting.

At that board meeting, held September 10, only one of the issues addressed at the public hearing was even mentioned. That issue involved formulating a procedure for the town planning board to follow in issuing permits. Why were the issues of major concern to the overwhelming majority of residents not addressed? Will they be addressed tonight? Will they be addressed before making any changes to the ordinance?

On September 16, the town planning board met and discussed the procedure for the permitting of drilling and material staging areas. After that, they discussed the filing of the required "Short Environmental Assessment Form". With all due respect to the planning board, they did admit to having little or no knowledge on more than one of the questions, yet answered them all in a manner that made it appear that there would be not environmental impact due to the proposed zoning ordinance changes. At the least, "Material Staging Areas" will cause a significant increase in traffic flow, along with substantial new concerns for environmental health.

Any changes that are made to the Oxford zoning ordinances should be handled with the utmost respect and due diligence on the part of all our public officials. As community residents, we deserve to have our health, safety and general welfare protected.

David Davis spoke next and said he would like to see a copy of the short environmental assessment form concerning the material staging areas. He also stated that he feels our zoning ordinance conflicts with the new Comprehensive Plan that is being drafted.

Mina Takahashi asked what the attorney for the Association of Towns had to say about the Planning Board's procedure for special exceptions and the legal and enforceability of the zoning ordinance changes. Their answer to this should be in writing.

Bruce Leonard spoke of problems with the zoning changes and would like a public referendum held for the residents to vote for or against fracking and abide by that decision.

COMMUNICATIONS:

The September 2014 collateralized deposit account information report was received from BNY Mellon.

A letter was received from Real Property Tax Services concerning the raising of the exemption level for Senior citizens. The level now stands at $24,400. Decision was made to leave the exemption at this level. The final State equalization rate is 62.00 for the Town of Oxford.

A letter was received from County of Chenango Industrial Development Agency making us aware that their agency is engaged in a nearly $6 million project to restore serviceability to the 45-1/2 miles of New York Susquehanna & Western railroad tracks in Chenango County. Many of the grade crossings have been paved over and the CCIDA requests that no additional modifications be made to road crossings and all crossings be restored to their pre-modification condition prior to the commencement of work in the spring of 2015.

Supervisor Wilcox stated that the Town of Oxford doesn't have any railroad crossings that have been paved over.

Jerry Locke commented on the excellent work that Stephen Foster has done on the "Little Merritt" cemetery and the book he authored. He felt that the Board should do something for him in recognition of this work and his accomplishments. Supervisor Wilcox stated that the first printing of the book sold out and the second printing is going very well. The Board agreed to be thinking about a suitable way to commend Stephen.
